PHOTOS THIS THURSDAY!

Levi Farber, a U.S. Marine and amateur photographer, has volunteered to come to AISA this Thursday, April 6th, to take photos of our teachers and students. It's an experiment, but if it works, we can then have them printed so you can buy school photos of your children. (Levi has already taken the photos on this page. Thank you, Levi!

BOOK WEEK

Next week, April 9-13, is Book Week at AISA. Please note the following activities that will be taking place... Each day the famous school bell will ring at different times and then EVERYONE has to drop what they are doing and READ!

- SUNDAY:
Dress as a fictional character!
- MONDAY:
Scavenger Hunt!
- TUESDAY:
We make bookmarks!
- WEDNESDAY:
We make book bags!
- THURSDAY:
We can be an author and also wear Pajamas today!

PLEASE LET MS. ANGELA KNOW IF YOU WOULD LIKE TO READ TO A CLASS NEXT WEEK.

Parents are warmly invited to come on campus before dismissal time to talk with each other or just to sit in our beautiful front garden or office foyer. If you wish to visit with other parents, however, PLEASE do not stand outside the front gate. Not only is it not safe because our street is very busy and sometimes cars drive too fast, but we also do not want to distract other drivers and to create too much of a traffic problem for our neighbors. Merci!

We appreciate your cooperation!
